FATHER JARETT'S ~ Q & A

A friend of mine said that the bible prohibits the use of statues and images in worship. Is that true? Are Catholics in violation of the Bible?

If your friend is talking about worshipping statues and images as a form of idolatry, then yes, the scriptures prohibit that practice, but the bible does not prohibit the use of statues or images all together. In fact, at times God in the scriptures commands his people to build certain images for a purpose. For example, in Ex. 25:18-19 God commands Moses to make figures of angels (cherubim). In Num. 21:8, God commands Moses to make a bronze serpent, upon which those who were ill were instructed to gaze in order to be healed. There are also other passages in scripture that describe the adornment of the Jewish Temple with symbolic statues and images. (1 Kings 6 and 7) In Catholic teaching as in scripture worship is reserved for God alone. Therefore, it is not the use of these things that is prohibited it is using them in idolatrous worship.

Do you have any pictures of your relatives hanging in your house? Why? Most likely it helps you to call those people to mind in thought and in prayer. Do you have any pictures of deceased relatives in your house? The same is true with these images, we look at them to call to mind our loved ones. The saints are also our spiritual relatives in God's family. Statues, icons, and images of saints are meant to enhance or facilitate prayers that call upon their intercession. We certainly do not worship these images or statues; we use them because as human beings we are drawn into prayer in a powerful way through our senses and in this case through our sense of sight.

In Christ's Loving Service
Your Pastor,

Fr. Jarett

My Jesus, I believe that You are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love You above all things, and I desire to receive You into my soul. Never permit me to be separated from You. Amen.
